A pleasant combination tour for bicyclers is to go to East Jordan by wheel and return by steamer, or vice versa. Although a little better road may be had by keeping above Ironton, the gain is very slight and the tourist is strongly recommended to visit this little town. The old iron furnace and charcoal kiln will be full of interest. Leaving Charlevoix, then, the route lies past the Bellvedere hotel and then parallel with the railroad track for a short distance. The large building on the shore is the D. M. Ferry Seed Co s warehouse, where fine seeds, especially peas of which this region produces a superior quality, are stored. A little further on the road crosses the railroad track, and ascending a little way a small hill, we keep to the left road and follow parallel with the track, now on the right hand, to a short but steep hill. Climbing this we find sand for a short distance, and just here a sandy road (there is promise that it may be graveled this season) continues to the left across a rough stretch of country. This road may be followed to Ironton if desired, and after a mile and a half of sand it becomes hard and good, and affords many pretty vistas of the lake. But we will describe the other route, in which we keep to the right, and after a gentle descent (good...
