Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Short History of the Library Company of Philadelphia Compiled The beginning of the Library Company of Philadelphia was largely owing to the Junto, a club founded by Benjamin Franklin for literary and scientific discussion, the reading of original essays, poems, and so forth, called a Club of Mutual Improvement. Franklin says in his autobiography: - About this time, our club meeting, not at a tavern, but in a little room of Mr. Grace s set apart for that purpose, a proposition was made by me, that since our books were often referr d to in our disquisitions upon the queries, it might be convenient for us to have them together where we met, that upon occasions they might be consulted; and by thus clubbing our books to a common library, we should while we lik d it keep them together, have each of us the advantage of using the books of all the other members, which would be nearly as beneficial as if each owned the whole. It was lik d and agreed to, and we fill d one end of the room with such books as we could best spare. The number was not so great as we expected; and tho they had been of great use, yet some inconvenience occuring for want of due care of them, the collection, after about a year, was separated, and each took his books home again. And now I set on foot my first project of a public nature, that for a subscription library. I drew up proposals, got them put into form by our great scrivener, Brockden, and by the help of my friends of...
