And every spring I watch the nest-building from my window with great satisfaction. O b. Stockton, Cal. Dear St. Nicholas: I am ever so glad that you printed my letter, and the picture of my house, in the January number of the St. Nicholas, and I write this to tell you my thanks. On New Year s day my friend Fannie and I received calls at my house; we had sixteen callers. We gave ihem coffee, candy, popcorn, macaroons, raisins, oranges and apples. We had a real nice time.--Your friend, Nellie Littlehalk. To C. Lindslev, Jr.--An article about the house-fly will appear in St. Nicholas before very long, and when it does, you will be able to find in it the answer to your question. The illustrated article about Litde Housemaids in this number of St. Nicholas was prepared after repeated visits to the so-called Kitchen-Garden classes of New York both by the author and the artist. We think all our boys and girls--and their parents, too--will be entertained by the account of this novel school; and we shall be glad if some of our older readers are prompted to take a practical interest in similar work. Every class of twenty-four scholars at the Kitchen-Garden has four teachers, and a dozen or more classes in New York alone are taught by about fifty volunteers, who have been trained by Miss Huntington herself. There is plenty of room for more schools, and...
